Industry Trends

Today's insurance world is becoming increasingly more digital and one where business agility is paramount. Aggressive competition, new business models, and increasingly heightened customer expectations are driving insurers to look for innovative technologies so they can respond rapidly to meet these changing market demands.

Challenges

Faced with these trends, many insurers are still running on outdated legacy systems that require a great deal of system maintenance just to keep operational. These same systems are rigid and lack the flexibility needed to enable an insurer to quickly respond to market demands. Many insurers attempt to work around their antiquated systems by implementing point solutions or extending certain capabilities. This leads to a patchwork of disjointed, disparate systems that are complex and costly to maintain.

Benefits

InsuranceNow's all-in-one design means that all functions are on the same system, enabling faster implementation and upgrades, as well as quicker testing and training. Your users have one set of tools, one user interface, and one place to make changes. Being cloud-based, the system dynamically scales in response to business demands. And redundant production environments ensure business continuity to set your mind at ease and your business in motion.

Freedom from System Maintenance
Running in the cloud ensures application availability, data protection, and business continuity. Our ongoing operational support of InsuranceNow frees you from the day-to-day tactical focus on application and infrastructure maintenance so that your technology teams can focus on strategy and innovation.

Rapid Implementation and Quick Upgrades
An all-in-one solution eliminates the temporary workarounds and complex integrations that come with a multi-product solution, making a rip-and-replace implementation of a full suite possible. You can go-live with the entire system in months rather than years.

Risk Mitigation
InsuranceNow and your data are backed by the comprehensive disaster recovery plan provided by AWS, ensuring your business continuity. With region-to-region failover and multiple availability zones, you can be confident that your business won't be interrupted.

Business Agility
The ability to quickly spin up environments in the cloud, means you can more rapidly respond to market demands, without waiting for provisioning of hardware and infrastructure.

How it works

How a suite was designed and delivered can put you at an advantage or a disadvantage from the beginning. If the system was built as a single solution, as InsuranceNow is, you'll reap the benefits: rapid implementation and upgrades that take weeks rather than months. InsuranceNow is cloud-based, enabling the system to dynamically scale in response to business demands. Redundant production environments ensure business continuity, so you can set your mind at ease and your business in motion.
